The Frozen Missouri River

Scott Martin, Executive Director of Land Learning Foundation, views the Missouri River at Glasgow, MO on February 20th, 2021. Frigid temperatures across the state formed an ice jam on the Missouri River reaching almost to Jefferson City, MO.

The Kansas City office of the National Weather Service stated the last time there was a confirmed ice jam was in 1983-1984, although it is believed to have also occurred in 1989 as well.
